SÍM welcomes you to the opening of the exhibition "Frosti" presenting works by three Slovak artists, Diana Čižmárová, Martina Šottová and Stanislav Bubán, Thursday 22 February from 17:00-19:00 at SÍM Gallery, Hafnarstræti 16.

The artists will present new and recent works, some of which have been created during their stay in Iceland as part of a residency-exchange program with SUVA, The Slovak Union of Visual Artist. The title "Frosti" refers to the series of graphics by Diana Čižmárová, but all the artists are working directly or indirectly from the Icelandic environment and landscape.

Diana Čižmárová's thematic focus is mainly landscape and ecological topics. The artist tries to capture the extreme transformations of the Icelandic landscape and its diversity, which are shaped mainly by the strong elements of fire and water. She uses an alternative graphic technique that imitates the beauty and delicacy of the landscape, while simultaneously revealing its complexity and crudeness.

Martina Šottová connects history with modern pieces that reveal fascinating structures and new expressive forms. She strives to bridge the gap between artists and the world through multimedia, capturing the essence of environment and landscape, as well as reflecting her personal perceptions and emotions through the visual medium of video. She combines documentary style with artistic expression to allow viewers to get closer to the authenticity and originality of her own experiences.

Since 2018, Stanislav Bubán has been painting intensively in plein air. With his practice, the artist aims to transform the decadent genre of landscape painting, as it has been regarded in modern art history, into an exciting adventure of discovering new worlds. As in one of his past exhibitions of this type of landscape paintings, titled "Close your eyes, pedestrian!" Stanislav plans to "close his eyes" and paint the Icelandic landscape in its visual and spiritual power.
